Cultural Arts District

An innovative district in the midst of a renaissance devoted to art and creative production.

Emeryville represents a different type of district, devoted to art production and including a wide variety of modern art forms such as animation, digital/video mapping compositions, and light as a medium.

The Emeryville arts colony began when guerrilla art known as "mud flat art" began appearing on its shoreline. As the region transitioned from heavy industry to the modern economy, artists moved into available warehouses, the Bay's eastern shoreline was restored, and the city underwent significant redevelopment. Partners such as Pixar Animation Studios, Emeryville Celebration of the Arts, Wareham Development, and Bullseye Glass help to grow, incubate, and fuse the arts district.
